SKETCH OF A COMMUNIST POLITICAL DOCTRINE

MASHINES CAPITALISM, CHINA, COSMOTECHNIK, MODERNITY, TECHNOLOGY

… The experimental technological utopia currently underway, that of a humanity confined to their homes, can be understood in this light: it proposes that we simply inhabit our own worldlessness [acosmie].It aims to spare us the experience of the loss of the world by depriving us of the experience of it. Reducing the world to the house accomplishes the final domestication. Everything is configured for the new imperial citizen, tele-consuming and tele-living behind the screen of his smartphone or computer, experiencing himself as the supreme center of his world.

Never has he been so free to command, to "navigate," to inform himself, express himself, and never too has he been such a puppet of the algorithms of the organized powers. He must be a prisoner to be drowning in so many offers of escape! What is underway is a kidnapping of the world. Simondon entrusted the happy reunion between the technical universe and humans to what he too called a "technology," but with an entirely different meaning. Negatively, this is what also makes it possible to consider the notion of cosmotechnics …
